

BUGGY MAZE

Life in the Australian desert is very harsh, and Aboriginal tribes learnt to use whatever they could find to survive, including insects! Follow the paths to discover how these insects are used by traditional Aborigines. One insect is left over - which one is it?

A local anaesthetic to deaden pain.

Protein rich food, found in acacia bush roots.

A sweet snack of nectar from underground.

These insects make a sweet treat found in trees.